

CANINE PREGNANCY TEMPERATURE CHART

	57	58	59	60	61	62	63	64	65	66	67	68	69	70
102.4
102.2
102
101.8
101.6
101.4
101.2
101
100.8
100.6
100.4
100.2
100
99.8
99.6
99.4
99.2
99
98.8
98.6
98.4
98.2
98
97.8
97.6
97.4
97.2
97

Recording your dog's temperature will let you know (within 24 hours) when labor will begin. Note: 12-24 hours before it drops it will rise higher than it's been in weeks letting you know she's getting close to labor. A dog's normal temperature is 101.5

This color indicates expected delivery date.

This color indicates that labor will start within 24 hours of this temperature.